

THEY HAVE AN INCREDIBLE KNOWLEDGE OF TIMBER, AND THEIR INNOVATIVE WOOD ENHANCES OUR RANGE OF STOCK.

Here at Quercus, we stock a wide range of products so whatever your project is, we can supply what you require. We aim to supply the best and most innovative solutions to our customers, and we therefore stock the special acetylated wood: Accoya.

Technology has played a huge role in the development of most traditional industries and timber is no different, with new products, techniques and tools changing the trade in recent years.

One great example of technology and timber coming together is Accoya, a unique, acetylated wood product.

We started supplying Accoya products because, like us, they have an incredible knowledge of timber, and their innovative wood enhances our range of stock with an extra option with increased durability and performance, which makes it increasingly popular.

Just in case you don't know what Accoya is, to put it simply, they have created a high-tech wood. Their special non-toxic acetylation process goes to the core of the timber to remove moisture, which makes it longer lasting, increases coating performance and makes it easier to machine.

We are proud to offer Accoya, as their product provides yet another solution to our customers, whatever their project may be. You can check out their products that we stock on our website!
