There are never enough hours in the day, whether you're working on a new product, in meetings or pricing new opportunities, there is always something to do. Because of this, you may not have taken time to scan our full range of products – but, don't worry, we thought we would make it easier for you.

Firstly, as you would expect, we stock a range of highly versatile hardwoods, which can be used for everything from beautiful windows and doors to bespoke staircases, or even boat building.

These hardwoods are the core of our business at Quercus and something that we deal with every hour of every day. We stock: European Oak, Sapele, Idigbo and many other species. Alongside these hardwood products, we also offer large regular volumes of Green and Air Dried Oak for more substantial construction projects, with an efficient turn-around time, direct from Europe.

Softwoods can be found, predominantly in construction environments, all over the world. But, they are also used as a cost-effective solution to painted joinery applications and cladding as well as many other projects. We offer a wide range of different softwoods: Douglas Fir, Larch, Southern Yellow Pine, Unsorted Redwood and Western Red Cedar.

However, if you are after that extra peace of mind and increased stability for your product, we stock a selection of engineered timber products. This includes laminated products for doors, windows and stair components as well as Accoya, a specially-engineered high-tech wood which can be used in a number of applications.

What you might not know is that we can also offer panel products, from veneered sheets, ideal for interior furniture, to robust plywood panels for manufacturing applications.

Finally, when it comes to flooring, we like to keep things simple. Often, with flooring, it can be a daunting prospect because of the amount of options that are out there. We choose to offer engineered hardwood flooring (which is available in a huge variety of different finishes), as well as solid oak flooring.

Obviously, we are also able to offer any of these products, whether it be any hardwood or softwood species or panels, machined to bespoke profiles or sizes.

If you would like any more information regarding any of our products, please feel free to get in touch.
